

UNIVERSIDADE DE LISBOA

BIONOTE

Moisés Silva Fernandes is a Research Fellow at The University of Lisbon, Portugal, and member of The Asian Studies Unit of The University of Brasília, Brazil.

His main research interests are Contemporary Portuguese-Chinese Relations, East Timor in Portuguese-Australian-Indonesian Relations, Portuguese Foreign Policy (endogenous, exogenous, and governmental settings), Comparative Foreign Policies, and approaches to Decision-making and Bargaining theories.

Has published three books, Confluência de Interesses: Macau nas Relações Luso-Chinesas Contemporâneas, 1945-2005 (Confluence of Interests: Macau in Contemporary Portuguese-Chinese Relations, 1945-2005), Lisbon, Instituto Diplomático and Centro Científico e Cultural de Macau, 2008; Macau na Política Externa Chinesa, 1949-1979 (Macau in Chinese Foreign Policy, 1949-1979), Lisbon, Imprensa de Ciências Sociais, 2006; and, Sinopse de Macau nas Relações Luso-Chinesas, 1945-1995 (Synopsis of Macau in Portuguese-Chinese Relations, 1945-1995), Lisbon, Fundação Oriente, 2000; and, several articles in academic journals and proceedings in Portuguese, English, and Chinese.

Former Member of the Advisory Board of the journal Negócios Estrangeiros (Foreign Affairs), and is currently Member of the Editorial Board of the journal Lusíada: Política Internacional e Segurança (Lusíada: International Politics and Security).